Jussa a few more hot ones now. Better brush up your old overcoat.

The fight against indecency is growing more popular and less idious. "Blessed is he that bouldeth out to the end."

Reports are continually coming into this office of the good work being done by State Evangelist Rev. H. M. McMillan. It is good to know your calling and evidently Rev. McMillan knows his.

With strife and insurrection in the governor's office there is a promise of some more sensational charges. Where will they end it all, tnyhow?

The shiftless street loafers and other worthless, but dangerous, characters are doomed in Tulsa. The people are demanding a clean town and by the Eternal Gods, they will have it.

Why not a good, strong organization of women in this city? No city has a finer lot of women to draw from than Tulsa and an organization of this kind would do more good for the community than all the other efforts. Where women lead, men are sure to follow.

The editor is still alive and actively engaged in the fight for public decency, and we are in the fight to stay the limit. We are meeting all comers with a clear conscience, with determination and confidence. Our only hope of reward is that we will help to create a better, a purer atmosphere for all the decent people of Tulsa.

Now that Patrolman Dillard has been removed the question naturally arises: "Who will be the next patrolman appointed to fill his place?"

It is necessary to have two good men to insure proper protection for the people of East End and we feel confident that the police commissioner will do his best to get a man favorable to the better class of people of this community.

Whoever, he is, he should have all the courage and other good qualities of a gentleman, a full sense of duty, with a high regard for his oath of office and deference for his superior officers.

He should be fearless in the performance of his duty and blind to favoritism. Any police officer should be a material help to the community and to the department. This is all the decent people ask of Mr. Dillard's successor.

The action of the bonehead Southern democrats who opposed the appointment of Mr. Patterson to the office of registrar of the U. S. Treasury has lost the party more colored voters than any act of the administration to date. It takes a far seeing, broad minded, self-sacrificing colored man to be a democrat under existing circumstances, we admit, but it is necessary that we be diversified in our politics. We cannot all be republicans, we cannot all be democrats, we cannot all be socialists. We should not, all of us, belong to any one political party, and, wisely, we do not.

But, we are, all of us, of the same race, and in politics we should be just as liberal with a black man who opposes our party affiliation in politics as we are with our brother who differs with us in religious belief and sentiment. The colored man is usually made the scapegoat of any party predominated over by white men and as long as present conditions obtain it will always be so. Let us, therefore, strive to change conditions.

The Star is still in the fight for decency and as long as there is anything publicly wrong and indecent to fight we will be found on the firing line. We serve notice now that this fight is on to the finish. No little pussilanimous cuss who indulges in any kind of street corner threats against us can intimidate us. We have been threatened with violence by one would be "bad man," who dared us to mention his name again. This issue, however, carries an article of which he is the subject and as long as he or any one else makes public record, good or bad, it is liable to appear in the Tulsa Star. We do not make the news, but when it is made the Star will certainly print it, if the editor feels disposed to do so. It is our purpose to give facts to the public without fear or favor, and to use all the power we can to improve public morals of this city. Any man or woman who comes within range of our guns will be warned of danger. If the warning is not heeded he or she will be fired upon without mercy.

The man or woman who is afraid to stand up and fight for the right is not worthy of citizenship.

No good citizen, and no honest bad one, will deny that our stand is right. We are glad to note one fact, which gives us encouragement in our battle for public decency. That is, the ministers as a whole are with us and have openly joined the ranks with us. We know the Colored population of Tulsa has a bad reputation with the outside world, but we desire to inform the world at large that the respectable people of Tulsa are in the majority and with the help of the ministers and other worthy citizens the Star will ultimately establish this fact.

Let's see. Do you know that fellow, Mulhah?

The two-cent rate is now in effect in Oklahoma, but what difference does it make whether the rate is two cents or two dollars if a poor devil hasn't got the fare?
